remain the responsibility and the option of continuing a cruel and wasting war, which can only end after still greater sacrifice in such treaty of peace as we now offer; or of preserving the blessings of peace by the simple abandonment of the design of subjugating a people over whom no right of dominion has been conferred on you by God or man.

BRAXTON BRAGG,
Gen. C. S. Army.

He received a report that Mannassas was evacuated by the enemy, and in possession of General Kearny. Gen. Sigel, feeling positive that the enemy were between Centerville and Gainesville, asked permission to march to New Market, but was ordered to proceed to Centerville.

proaching, they would cry "Turkey! turkey coming!" and fall flat to avoid them. One of our artillerists, a German, when he saw the tools falling around him, exclaimed "My God! we shall have the blacksmith shop to come next."

We are assured by those who should know that revelations yesterday in the court of inquiry, and those yet to appear, will demonstrate that the widely published order from Miles to Col. Ford, instructing the latter to hold on to Maryland Heights till the cow tails came off, is a forgery; that Ford left his position against his wish, and in obedience to the Executive of their State.

By this process a larger weight of butter is obtained than by the usual manner of churning, and the manufacture is completed with certainty and ease in a few minutes, by a machine of novel construction, which, after the butter is produced heats, washes and presses it thoroughly without any application of the hand."

HOMICIDE—Sunday evening, about six o'clock, Sergeant John Snyder, of Captain Dillard's company, Provost Guard, was shot and killed by Tony Maginty, formerly a member of the same company. It appears that Tony Maginty and Andrew Riley were in the neighborhood of the Military Prison, on Broadway street, yesterday afternoon, and rode their horses back and forth on the sidewalk in front of the prison. Sergeant Snyder finally ordered the two men to dismount, and an altercation ensued, Riley getting off his horse to fight Sergeant Snyder. Snyder resisted Riley, when Maginty fired upon Snyder, the ball taking effect in his left side, just below the armpit, inflicting a wound which proved fatal in about half an hour. Both of them were arrested and put in jail. The deceased leaves a wife and three children, besides a host of friends to mourn his loss.

The Sixth Kentucky Cavalry is now fully organized and in the field, under highly competent officers. The officers are: D. J. Halsey, Colonel; R. Mundy, Lieutenant Colonel; L. A. Gratz, First Major; Roper, Second Major; W. N. Fidler, Third Major; Kelley, Adjutant; Geo. Lambrook, Quartermaster; Yates, Commissary; Wm. Robinson, Sergeant Major. Col. Halsey is one of the most energetic officers in the service. Col. Mundy has been in service since last fall, and has proved his qualities as an officer in several hard-fought battles. The other staff officers are men of courage, and are well qualified for their respective positions.

Captain Voorhies, with several experienced railroad men, took a train up the road Sunday. They proceeded as far as Radford's water station, three miles this side of Eminence. While there they were informed that everything was quiet in the neighborhood. Captain Sewell, with a company of Home Guards, occupied Newcastle. They also learned from a gentleman direct from above, that the rebels were intrenching in the neighborhood of Hardinsville, their force amounting to about twenty thousand men. The train returned to the city in the evening.

INQUEST No. 21—Held October 6th, on Third street, between Main and Water, on the body of James Fisher, a member of Co. A, Tenth Ohio. Verdict—Came to his death by a wound in the left side, caused by a knife in the hands of a man whose name is unknown to the jury.

JAMES C. GILL, CORNER.
INQUEST No. 22—Held Oct. 6, 1862, at the Military Prison, on Tenth and Broadway, on the body of John M. Snyder. Verdict—Came to his death by a wound in the left side, penetrating the lungs, inflicted by a ball fired from a pistol in the hands of Antonio McElroy.

Late News from Frankfort.
On Saturday last Gen. Bragg and his staff, including Marshall, regaled themselves and the community at Frankfort, with a speech and a dinner, and then proceeded to inaugurate Dick Hawes, of Paris, as Governor of Kentucky. Their speeches were in keeping with their cause, and for the purpose of stirring up the community in aid of the rebellion. After they had delivered themselves, the rebel forces performed the afterpiece in the burning of the railroad bridge. This accomplished, the rebel infantry moved off in the direction of Lexington. A portion of Scott's cavalry remained and celebrated the Sabbath by cutting and destroying the bridge connecting with South Frankfort. The cavalry left about 10 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and the place once more was free from rebel rule. The rebels took all the printing press in the office of the State Printer, together with the ink on hand, and such other things as they wished.

They succeeded but poorly in getting recruits at Frankfort or in Franklin county. Not more than fifty men joined them.

Macklin, the old man whose hams are famous, was made to supply the rebels with meat, for which they paid him generously in Confederate scrip. He is a rebel and should not object.

We understand that Messrs. Barstow & Jilson, who keep a dry goods store near the Frankfort Railroad depot, were arrested three times, for refusing to receive Confederate scrip for their goods.

The rebels helped themselves to all the jeans, linseys and cotton goods, at the manufacturing establishment of John Watson, in the town.

They also helped themselves generally to such articles as they needed—but, always paid in scrip. The rascals, doubtless, stole the State paper to print the scrip with which to pay for the goods and merchandise taken.

Provisions, except flour and corn meal, are very scarce and high at Frankfort. We understand that a number of leading secessionists, whose sympathies were with the rebellion, have been patronized by the rebel forces so liberally that they can count their scrip by the thousands, and go in exchange for their goods during the stay of the rebels in their midst.

The advance of the Federal forces were at Hardinsville, eleven miles from Frankfort, Sunday evening. The State Capital is again in the possession of the Federal army, and the old flag is waving over the State House. The refugees from Frankfort are rapidly returning, and soon law and order will reign there. There are some people in the Capital who need law and order. Let them have it.

"Clear as Amber"—Ye Post.
"Amber," the Louisville correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, should change his cognomen. Mud, we suggest, as being more expressive. In a letter published Saturday last, he says: "McCook's Division went to the Taylorsville road—Crittenden's, the Shelbyville, while Gilbert's was held in reserve." The Indiana's story was, "three truths and one lie." Not bad for Indiana. Amber's statement is all wrong. No marvel the Gazette should ignore Gen. Buell, and speak of Thomas' army, when he has so reliable a correspondent.

From Mr. Carr, the popular messenger of the Adams Express Company, we learn that a passenger train went down the Nashville Railroad yesterday, as far as Shepherdsville, and returned in the evening. A large force is engaged in reconstructing the bridge which was destroyed by the rebels, and will be completed in a few days. All was quiet at Shepherdsville and along the line. The train will continue to run regularly to that point, until the completion of the bridge, when the trips will be extended as far as the condition of the road will permit.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, at their office in this city, on Monday, the 6th instant, William T. Samuels was chosen Chairman, and A. M. Quarrier, Secretary.

The following persons were duly elected Directors for the ensuing year:
Hon. James Guthrie, H. D. Newcomb, Thomas Quigley, James B. Wilder, James Speed, Urban E. Ewing, and Russell Huston.

Last Tuesday night, a party of guerrillas, encamped at Russellville, Kentucky, were attacked by a party of Federals, and totally routed, with a loss of about forty killed. The others escaped, leaving behind them horses and arms. Our loss, one killed and two wounded.

Two respectably dressed young women were arrested yesterday, near Gilman's, for having stolen a trunk, which they were riding when caught. They had on hats and blue veils; the latter they kept down close over their faces.

The rebels at Frankfort on Saturday morning inaugurated Dick Hawes as the rebel Governor of Kentucky, and then skedaddled him away from that place in the evening. Rapid fellows, these rebel politicians.

We learn that an exchange is being effected of the officers and privates of the Twenty-eighth Kentucky regiment, who were captured at Gallatin, Tennessee, some time ago, by John Morgan.

We learn that Messrs. Young & Mallory have again started the stage line between this city and Taylorsville, and will run regularly as heretofore.

A soldier was stabbed and killed on Saturday night, in a coffeehouse on the levee, by an unknown man. The Coroner's inquest was held.

Messrs. L. L. and Elias Dorsey, of this county, took several premiums at the Indiana State Fair, at Indianapolis, for fine blooded stock.

Main street, between First and Second, was blockaded nearly all day yesterday, with Government wagons.

Two soldiers stopped a negro Sunday, on Market street above Jackson, and took his watch away from him.

Thanks to Mr. Nunnemacher, of the Adams Express Company, for latest Saint Louis papers.

See "General Order" in another column this morning, issued by Governor Robinson.

The Grand Lodge of Masons meets in this city on the 20th inst.

"My Mary Land! Oh! Let me in. You surely cannot doubt me." "Come on!" said she, "but Little Mac will come and put you out." So Little Mac lit from his saddle, and out the back door did skedaddle.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF SCHOOLS.—The Board met last night at the usual hour. On motion, the reading of the journal was dispensed with. The Committee on Grievances made a report, asking to be discharged from the consideration of the case of Mrs. Emily Bryant, charged with disloyalty, the charges not being sustained by the testimony. A report was read from the Principal of the Female High School; also, a report from the Principal of the Male High School. Both institutions are in a very flourishing condition. The Superintendent made a report, that six of our large school buildings had been taken and occupied as military hospitals. A committee was appointed, consisting of the Mayor, President of the Board, the Principal of the Male High School, Messrs. Ramsey and Osborne, to wait upon Gen. Boyle concerning the occupation of them as hospitals, and requesting him to restore them to the Board. Mr. Duffield and Mr. Cox sent in their resignations which were both accepted.

The bond of the Secretary of the Board was read and approved. An additional teacher—Miss Mary Habacker—was allowed to the Tenth Ward school. The salaries of teachers not engaged were suspended from October 1st. Other matters of slight importance were brought before the Board, when, on motion, the meeting adjourned to meet on Wednesday evening next.

Alf. Burnett, the Cincinnati Daily Times' graphic correspondent, in one of his letters, holds the following opinion of the National Hotel, which we fully endorse: "We cannot speak in too high terms of the National. Notwithstanding the house has been excessively crowded, yet the visitors have at all times felt at home. Major Harrow is extensively known all over the State as a genial, well-souled, real Kentucky gentleman—his table at all times supplied with every luxury the market affords. He has lately added new rooms to the house, and fitted them up in fine style. The guests of this house, no matter whether the hard-fisted farmer or the aristocratic gentleman, feel equally at home, and with such gentlemanly assistants as Dr. Sheets and Col. Myers, the house cannot do less than prosper."

FROM BARDSTOWN.—We have no news of any importance from the advance on the Bardstown road. Our forces were at Bloomfield yesterday, still in pursuit of the rebels, who continue to retreat. It is the opinion generally entertained in the army, that Bragg, notwithstanding his repeated promises to stand and fight, is making every exertion to get out of the State without a battle. We trust our forces may be able to cut off their retreat and force them to fight; and from the movements on foot we think this result will come.

GLORIOUS SERENADE.—Another serenade last night; and this time a glorious one. The Louisville Silver Band, Eichhorn, leader, stopped before our office and performed three or four pieces in most excellent style. It is very seldom, indeed, that we hear such music from a brass or silver band which are so well disciplined. We can conscientiously recommend the Louisville Silver Band to all who want the best music rendered in the best manner.

THEATRE.—A large and delighted audience assembled at the theater last night, to witness the celebrated play of "Lucretia Borgia," which was produced in most excellent style—in fact, the entertainment passed off finely. To-night another fine bill is offered—"Hofer, the Tell of Tyrol," a patriotic drama, will be presented; a song, and the laughable farce of "The Omnibus." This should attract a very large audience, and no doubt will.

A horse ran away with a member of the Fourth Kentucky Cavalry yesterday, near Park Barracks. The rider was "worse scared than hurt."

General Order.
COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
LOUISVILLE, October 6, 1862.

In obedience to an order from the Commanding General of the United States Army, in reference to the proper efficiency and discipline of the military forces now in the field, I hereby request that the commanding officers of Kentucky regiments will report at once to me all vacancies that exist in the company offices of their respective regiments, and such vacancies as may be filled. And, concurring fully as I do, in the views of Gen. Halleck, that the efficiency of the army is to be maintained and increased by the promotion of officers, commissioned and uncommissioned, and privates who have distinguished themselves in the field, or who have shown a capacity of military command. I desire at the same time to receive from the commandants of regiments, recommendations of all such officers or privates who deserve promotion, either by reason of faithful service or deeds of valor. The prospect of promotion is the great incentive to the faithful performance of duty on the part of the soldier, and duty thus performed should constitute the chief basis of recommendation in the selection of those who are to be charged with important military trusts.

I, therefore, direct that the suggestions of this order be at once complied with, to the end that all existing vacancies may be filled, and the efficiency and discipline of the forces of Kentucky, now in the field, promoted.

The amount of work which can be performed is very great, and it is a great labor saving machine. I regard it as a valuable investment, and I recommend it to all who want the best machine in the market.
